Swiftclean bolsters board with new HR Director

Mark Leadbetter has been appointed to the board of directors of Swiftclean (UK) Ltd.

He will be the company's first Human Resources (HR) Director and will be responsible for helping ensure Swiftclean achieves its corporate objectives, as well as developing and implementing innovative and forward thinking HR strategies.

This is very much in line with the five-year strategic growth plan developed by the ventilation hygiene and legionella prevention firm.

Commenting on his appointment Mark stated: "I saw a clear commitment to the company's 5 year growth plan. Whilst these stretching targets will be challenging, with the people that we have in place and the plans to add to the team I feel that the goals are achievable and I am looking forward to helping develop the staff so that company goals can be realised."

Gary Nicholls, Group Managing Director of Swiftclean, added: "Mark's key role will be to ensure that our staff, both individually and as a team work to the best of their abilities and reach their maximum potential. He will also be responsible for ensuring that our internal and external communications are assessed and continually improved. This will ensure that our customers continue to receive best value whenever dealing with Swiftclean."

Mark will be based at Swiftclean's Head Office in Southend-on-Sea, but will be a regular visitor to the company's Midlands office. He will also oversee Swiftclean's large team of field-based engineers.
